AVIAN INFLUENZA INFORMATION SHEET

Protecting your farm from avian influenza

FAST FACTS:

- The presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza has been confirmed in commercial poultry flocks in the Midwest.
- Although avian influenza is a highly contagious disease to domestic poultry, there are no apparent risks with this particular strain to human health from domestic poultry or domestic poultry products at this time.
- Protect your flock by practicing good biosecurity:
  - Sanitize equipment and clothing used around them;
  - Protect them from contact with wild birds; and
  - Restrict access to your property and keep your birds away from other birds.
- It is safe to eat properly handled and cooked poultry products, including meat and eggs.
